	0.4000T104T1031 31 0F 7 25X1	_
2000	Approved For Release 2003/08/12 : CIA-RDP82-00457R015600430003-3
COUN	THE PORT HUMAN	perioden i periode desert
TOPIC.	Polish Troops in Warsaw 25X1
	77 77 W 1975 1985 1985 1985 1985 1985 1985 1985 198	Mark of the second
EVALU.	ATIONPLACE OBTAINED	25
,	OF CONTENT prior to 6 June 1952	***************************************
DATE	25X1	Mary When the supplement
DATE (DATE PREPARED 5 Lecember 1952	ant religione at 1 to 15 to 15 to 15
REFER	ENCES
PAGES	2 ENCLOSURES (No. & TYPE)
REMAR	KS	en et verene en
-	DO NOT CIRCULATE	City of Addison Conscious supposes
	the control of the co
	25X1	to exist me under miles
		,
(1 1 。	the first time an emplacement of four 37=mm AA guns in 'arsaw near a railroad bridge across the Vistula River. they had not been there prior to May 1952.	25
(1	AA guns in 'arsaw near a railroad bridge across the Vistula River.	25
(1	AA guns in 'arsaw near a railroad bridge across the Vistula River. they had not been there prior to May 1952. Prior to November 1951, a barracks installation quartering a motorized militia unit was located in the Warsaw town district of Praga on the west side of ul., Modlinska and north of the railroad line which crossed the Linii. Obwodowej bridge from the west. I Adjoining this militia barracks installation on the north was a three-story building with a loading ramp which served as a supply depot for convict and internes camps and was guarded by two KBW sentries. I Another supply depot fronting Gen. Swierczewskiego, Plantowa, Stalowa and Szwedzka Streets was in the Targowek town district. Its four one-story sheds had loading ramps for trucks and railroad cars and were in the north-	25
?•	AA guns in 'arsaw near a railroad bridge across the Vistula River. they had not been there prior to May 1952. Prior to November 1951, a barracks installation quartering a motorized militia unit was located in the Warsaw town district of Praga on the west side of ul. Modlinska and north of the railroad line which crossed the Linii. Obwodowej bridge from the west. Adjoining this militia barracks installation on the north was a three-story building with a loading ramp which served as a supply depot for convict and internes camps and was guarded by two KBW sentries. Another supply depot fronting Gen. Swierczewskiego, Plantowa, Stalowa and Szwedzka Streets was in the Targowek town district. Its four one-story	25
2.	AA guns in 'arsaw near a railroad bridge across the Vistula River. they had not been there prior to May 1952. Prior to November 1951, a barracks installation quartering a motorized militia unit was located in the Warsaw town district of Praga on the west side of ul., Modlinska and north of the railroad line which crossed the Linii. Obwodowej bridge from the west, I Adjoining this militia barracks installation on the north was a three-story building with a loading ramp which served as a supply depot for convict and internes camps and was guarded by two KSW sentries. Another supply denot fronting den. Swierczewskiego, Plantowa, Stalowa and Szwedzka Streets was in the Targowek town district. Its four one-story sheds had loading ramps for trucks and railroad cars and were in the northeast section of the area. They stored all kinds of rations which were collected by military or civilian trucks. The premises were guarded by Informacja men who were caps with light red bands and collar patches of	25
(1 ?° 3°	AA guns in 'arsaw near a railroad bridge across the Vistula River. they had not been there prior to May 1952. Prior to November 1951, a barracks installation quartering a motorized militia unit was located in the Warsaw town district of Praga on the west side of ul., Modlinska and north of the railroad line which crossed the Limit. Obwodowej bridge from the west. I Adjoining this militia barracks installation on the north was a three-story building with a loading ramp which served as a supply depot for convict and interned camps and was guarded by two KEW sentries. I Another supply depot fronting Gen. Swierczewskiege, Plantowa, Stalowa and Szwedzka Streets was in the Targowek town district. Its four one-story sheds had loading ramps for trucks and railroad cars and were in the northeast section of the area. They stored all kinds of rations which were collected by military or civilian trucks. The premises were guarded by Informacja men who were caps with light red bands and collar patches of the same color. Fort Traugutta, north of the center of the city, was used as supply depot of the KBW. Trucks and sentrics of the KBW were repeatedly seen. Prior to November 1951, a Polish unit wearing red cap bands was billeted in the barracks installation in the Fraga town district between ul. Targowa and Al. Stalingradzka, Polish workmer stated the unit quartered there was an	25
(1 2° 3°	AA guns in 'arsaw near a railroad bridge across the Vistula River. they had not been there prior to May 1952. Prior to November 1951, a barracks installation quartering a motorized militia unit was located in the Warsaw town district of Praga on the west side of ul., Modlinska and north of the railroad line which crossed the Linii. Obwodowej bridge from the west. I Adjoining this militia barracks installation on the north was a three-story building with a loading ramp which served as a supply depot for convict and interned camps and was guarded by two KEW sentries. I Another supply depot fronting Gen. Swierczewskiege, Plantowa, Stalowa and Szwedzka Streets was in the Targowek town district. Its four one-story sheds had loading ramps for trucks and railroad cars and were in the northeast section of the area. They stored all kinds of rations which were collected by military or civilian trucks. The premises were guarded by Informacja men who were caps with light red bands and collar patches of the same color. Fort Traugutta, north of the center of the city, was used as supply depot of the KBW. Trucks and sentries of the KBW were repeatedly seen. Prior to Movember 1951, a Polish unit wearing red cap bands was billeted in the barracks installation in the Fraga town district between ul. Targowa and	25
3. 3. 5.	they had not been there prior to May 1952. Prior to November 1951, a barracks installation quartering a motorized militia unit was located in the Warsaw town district of Praga on the west side of ul., Modlinska and north of the railroad line which crossed the Linii. Obwdowej bridge from the west. I Adjoining this militia barracks installation on the north was a three-story building with a loading ramp which served as a sumply depot for convict and interned camps and was guarded by two KBW sentries. I Another supply depot fronting Ben. Swierczewskiere, Plantowa, Stalowa and Szwedzka Streets was in the Targowek town district. Its four one-story sheds had loading ramps for trucks and railroad cars and were in the northeast section of the area. They stored all kinds of rations which were collected by military or civilian trucks. The premises were guarded by Informacja men who were caps with light red bands and collar patches of the same color. Fort Traugutta, north of the center of the city, was used as supply depot of the KBW. Trucks and sentries of the KBW were repeatedly seen. Prior to Hovember 1951, a Polish unit wearing red cap bands was billeted in the barracks installation in the Fraga town district between ul. Targowa and Al. Stallingradzka, Polish workmer stated the unit quartered there was an infantry battalion. The headquarters of this unit was on ula Rakowiccka. The fully motorized unit had Coviet jeeps and sedans and was armed with submachine guns or pistols. The officers of this	25.
3. 3. 5.	they had not been there prior to May 1952. Prior to November 1951, a barracks installation quartering a motorized militia unit was located in the Warsaw town district of Praga on the west side of ul., Modlinska and north of the railroad line which crossed the Linii. Obvodowej bridge from the west. Adjoining this militia barracks installation on the north was a three-story building with a loading ramp which served as a suncly depot for convict and interned camps and was guarded by two KEW sentries. Another surely denot fronting Gen. Swierczewskiego, Flantowa, Stalowa and Szwedzka Streets was in the Targowek town district. Its four one-story sheds had loading ramps for trucks and railroad cars and wore in the northeast section of the area. They stored all kinds of rations which were collected by military or civilian trucks. The premises were guarded by Informacja men who wore caps with light red bands and collar patches of the same color. Fort Trangutta, north of the center of the city, was used as supply depot of the KEW. Trucks and sentries of the KBW were repeatedly seen. Prior to Movember 1951, a Polish unit wearing red cap bands was billeted in the barracks installation in the Praga town district between ul. Targowa and Al. Stalingradska, Polish workmer stated the unit quartered there was an infantry battalion. the Praga town district between ul. Targowa and Al. Stalingradska, Polish workmer stated the unit quartered there was an infantry battalion. The fully motorized unit had coviet jeeps and sedans and was armed with submachine guns or pistols. The officers of this unit allegedly had authority over all members of the Polish Armed Forces including field officers.	25.
3. 3. 5.	they had not been there prior to May 1952. Prior to November 1951, a barracks installation quartering a motorized militia unit was located in the Warsaw town district of Praga on the west side of ul., Modlinska and north of the railroad line which crossed the Linii. Obvodowed bridge from the west. Adjoining this militia barracks installation on the north was a three-story building with a loading ramp which served as a surply depot for convict and interned camps and was guarded by two KEW sentries. Another surply depot fronting den. Swierczewskiego, Plantowa, Stalowa and Szwedzka Streets was in the Targowek town district. Its four one-story sheds had loading ramps for trucks and railroad cars and were in the northest section of the area. They stored all kinds of rations which were collected by military or civilian trucks. The premises were guarded by Informacja men who were caps with light red bands and collar patches of the same color. Fort Traugutta, north of the center of the city, was used as supply depot of the KEW. Trucks and sentries of the KEW were repeatedly seen. Prior to Hovember 1951, a Polish unit wearing red cap bands was billeted in the barracks installation in the Praga town district between ul. Targowa and Al. Stalingradzka, Polish workmer stated the unit quartered there was an infantry battalion. The fully motorized unit had coviet jeeps and sedans and was armed with submachine guns or pistols. The officers of this unit allegedly had authority over all members of the Polish Armed Forces including field officers. Another police unit, designated Police No 9, which was independent of the	25.
3. 3. 5. (1	they had not been there prior to May 1952. Prior to November 1951, a barracks installation quartering a motorized militia unit was located in the Warsaw town district of Praga on the west side of ul., Modlinska and north of the railroad line which crossed the Linii. Obvodowej bridge from the west. Adjoining this militia barracks installation on the north was a three-story building with a loading ramp which served as a suncly depot for convict and interned camps and was guarded by two KEW sentries. Another surely denot fronting Gen. Swierczewskiego, Flantowa, Stalowa and Szwedzka Streets was in the Targowek town district. Its four one-story sheds had loading ramps for trucks and railroad cars and wore in the northeast section of the area. They stored all kinds of rations which were collected by military or civilian trucks. The premises were guarded by Informacja men who wore caps with light red bands and collar patches of the same color. Fort Trangutta, north of the center of the city, was used as supply depot of the KEW. Trucks and sentries of the KBW were repeatedly seen. Prior to Movember 1951, a Polish unit wearing red cap bands was billeted in the barracks installation in the Praga town district between ul. Targowa and Al. Stalingradska, Polish workmer stated the unit quartered there was an infantry battalion. the Praga town district between ul. Targowa and Al. Stalingradska, Polish workmer stated the unit quartered there was an infantry battalion. The fully motorized unit had coviet jeeps and sedans and was armed with submachine guns or pistols. The officers of this unit allegedly had authority over all members of the Polish Armed Forces including field officers.	25

Approved For Release 2003/08/12 : CIA-RDP82-00457R015600430003-3

•	SECFET,
	25X1
25X1	Police No 9 had extraordinary power and wore civilian clothing.
7.	In April 1951, a Polish unit of battalion strength was seen marching into the east section of the large barracks installations east of Al.Stalingradzka and north of Batuszowa in the Praga town district. The unit was armed with rifles and submachine guns. Polish soldiers were seen currying horses in the barracks yard.
25X1 1.
3.

SECRUAL,